Blue Spruce Technologies is a security systems integrator focused on solving the unique challenges facing Enterprise IT companies, including secure messaging, secure network access, and the integration of complimentary security technologies. The Company provides consulting and services ranging from market research to strategy & planning through system implementation.

The dramatic increase in new products and new markets that address different facets of IT security have created a challenge for IT administrators: the integration of this new, diverse technology into a cohesive system. Integrating event data from different products such as firewall, Intrusion Detection/Prevention, Anti-Virus, and Anti-Spam systems is an important step in the maturing of an organization's security infrastructure. In addition, aligning the functionality of these components such that they are complimentary, instead of conflicting, is critical to establishing a consistent security profile, and to realizing optimal return on security investment. Finally, the unification of these technologies is also key to the success of technology solutions to support compliance initiatives – so critical to organizations in today's business environment.

Benefits / attributes of Security Product Integration include:

- ▲ Increased efficiency through the creation of a unified system for events management, remediation, and threat detection.
- ▲ Complimentary technologies deployed to better serve the organization's IT security and business goals
- ▲ Minimize network outages caused by worms and viruses through integrated events management and response
- ▲ Unification of features and functions across different product types
- ▲ Installation, Implementation, Tuning and Training
